Selection

If there are more qualified applicants than places, a selection is made among the qualified applicants.

To determine which applicants are admitted to the program, a selection is made in several steps. In the first stage, we make a selection based primarily on work samples, to determine which applicants should be called for an interview. If you are called for an interview, then a second selection will be made based on your interview, your grades, as well as a practical assignment that is performed during the interview process.
